Primary Coverages	Limits
Dwelling
Other Structures	NaN
Personal Property	NaN
Loss of Use	NaN
Liability	300000
Deductible	1000

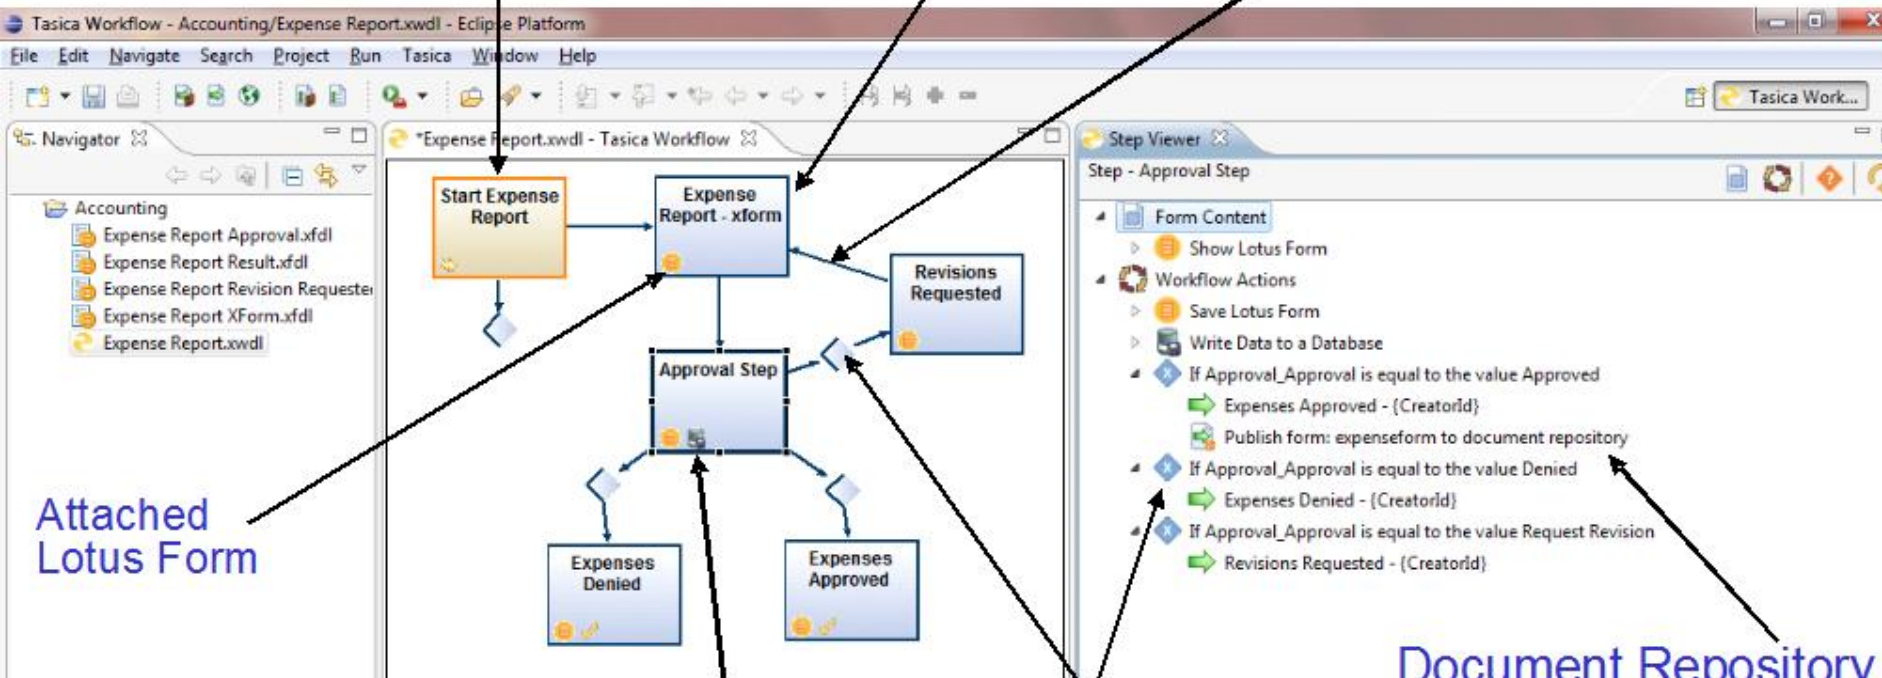

On the right side of the canvas, there is a sidebar with a 'Questions about your insurance coverage?' section featuring a woman's image and icons for chat, phone, and search. Below this is a 'Frequently Asked Questions' section with questions like 'Why is my email address required?' and 'Is my information secure?'. At the bottom of the sidebar is a 'Sign me up!' button.
